Perceptions, People, and Programs

Perceptions of Wildfire and Wildfire Risk

- What is the most common cause of wildland fires in Arizona?
- I'm safer because my house is farther away from the forest or shrublands.
- We are safe because we haven't had a fire here in at least 50 years.
- All fires are bad!
- Lack of concern does not equate to lack of knowledge.
